

PRESIDENT SAFE NOT TO RUSH US INTO WORLD WAR

—SEC. OF STATE STIMSON

Head War Dept. Again Witness on Lease-Lend Legislation

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Secretary Stimson said today that no president had "rushed this country into war" and Congress could "safely rest" with Roosevelt the broad responsibilities proposed for him in the lease-lend program.

Discussing the program with the House foreign affairs committee, the war department chief was led by Representative Tinkham (R-Mass.) into a discussion of the discretion the President would have in determining nations whom the United States might aid.

Stimson prefaced his remarks by saying he had observed closely many presidents and had been impressed with their sense of responsibility and asserted no president had "rushed this country into war."

"I, the light of that," Stimson said, "while Congress could take the risk of naming the countries, I think they could safely rest the responsibility of that with the present president of the United States."

"Fantastic and preposterous" was Stimson's description of a suggestion that the lend-lease bill was so drawn as to permit purchase by this country of the British and French navies.

Tinkham read to the secretary a newspaper story which quoted unnamed persons as saying the bill purposely was drawn that way.

Tinkham inquired whether under the measure's "broad wording" such purchases could be made.

"I haven't considered it in that light," was the reply.

Precautionary Provision

Roosevelt, at his press conference later, said a provision to let the war and navy secretaries buy war materials from friendly nations was put in the bill as a precaution.

In a world of change, he told reporters, every 24 hours something might turn up to make it necessary to add to American defenses. Advising against jumping at conclusions, he said the provision was just a precautionary measure for American defense.

The president too had been questioned concerning the newspaper story.

He said, in reply, he supposed congress might authorize him to acquire the German navy, too, and asked whether newsmen did not think the discussion was awfully, awfully cow-jump-over-the-moon business.

At first he misinterpreted the inquiry to understand the press was asking for comment on the possibility of disposing of the United States navy to Britain.

Could Stand on His Head

Talking on that matter, he remarked somewhat sarcastically that nothing in the bill would prohibit his doing what might be a dangerous thing—standing on his head. But he added with a chuckle that the president of the United States does not expect to stand on his head, has no desire to do so and similarly has no desire to get rid of the navy.

He was asked whether, since he did not intend to make any transfer of the fleet, he would have any objections to a restriction in the measure on such a transfer.

Sarcastically, the chief executive said he supposed he had better put in also a prohibition on his standing on his head.

When the "sell-out-navy" point came up in the house committee's discussions, Stimson said there was no authority in the bill to permit the President to sell parts of the Navy and that while the authority might exist elsewhere, "the assumption that the President would ever use it and sell the Navy is fantastic."

Representative Rogers (R-Mass.) asked the secretary whether he was satisfied with the defense program.

Not Satisfied

"No," he replied emphatically. "I'm not satisfied at all. I wish we were all through and ready."

Representative Vorys (R-Ohio) asked:

"Should we have a definite, formal understanding as to the disposition of the British fleet before we embark on this program?"

"That question," Stimson said, "was considered very carefully last summer. We asked for and were given the very strongest assurances that one democracy can give another."

Stimson repeatedly declined to answer "in this atmosphere" questions by Vorys as to the possibility of defeat of the axis powers.

In another field of the defense program, Roosevelt said it was old news that navy yards would go on a three-shift basis. He said he had announced last August that

Homemakers With Proper Training Called Vital Need

"Trained homemakers are needed."

The importance of providing an up-to-the-minute Cooking School for the community is emphasized again in those four words, which were coined—not by this paper for the coming school—but by the president of a leading American college.

This educator's words are particularly significant as the big opportunity days approach for the Cooking School, coming Tuesday to the Dixon theater for four big afternoon sessions.

"Home is the foundation of every civilization, as well as the center of family life. Trained homemakers are needed to protect and strengthen family ties, to give children intelligent physical care and guide their emotional, moral and spiritual development; to act as skilled purchasing agents, and to plan for a constructive use of leisure time."

Harmonizing with the need conveyed in the above words is this recent comment from Dr. Helen J. Bond, president of the American Home Economics Association: "I think I shall live to see courses in homemaking and domestic economy taught at Yale."

Sympathetic Friend

Busy homemakers who must act, seven days a week, as skilled purchasing agents, nutritionists, and child psychologists, will meet a sympathetic friend in Mrs. Emily M. Lantz, who will preside over the demonstration kitchen in the Dixon theater.

"The apologetic phrase 'Oh, I just keep house,' this prominent lecturer says in her vigorous way, should be put on the shelf along with relics of the horse and buggy age. It is safe to predict that by the time the 1950 census is taken, enumerators will credit housewives with having a profession just as worthy of their respect as that of lawyers and doctors."

"No personal ambition," she continues, "no building of a career, no accumulation of a fortune, can compare with the importance of the home."

Spiritual Experiences Claimed by "I Am" Leaders Likened to Mormons

Los Angeles, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The jury hearing the case of nine leaders of the "I Am" movement accused of mail fraud and conspiracy to misuse the mails resumed deliberations today after failing to reach a verdict last night.

The jury received the case late yesterday and was locked up for the night several hours later.

In concluding arguments the defense declared Mrs. Edna W. Ballard, widow of the founder of the movement, her son, Donald, and the seven other accused leaders, were victims of persecution.

Prosecuting attorneys contended that "I Am" leaders had conducted a $600,000 racket by preying upon the faith of their followers.

ASK PRESIDENT'S INTERCESSION IN IHC CONTROVERSY

CIO Officials Request Labor Board Poll in Four Factories

Chicago, Jan. 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's intercession in one phase of the controversy between the CIO Farm Equipment Workers Organizing Committee and the International Harvester Company was sought today by three officials of the labor group.

They asked the president to prevail upon the National Labor Relations Board to issue an immediate report on a jurisdictional dispute pending for more than two years.

The F. E. W. O. C. charged the company violated the Wagner Labor Act by dominating the independent employee organizations at plants in Chicago, Milwaukee, East Moline and Rock Falls, Ill. A trial examiner sustained the charge but it was denied by the company. The NLRB has yet to act.

Three File Appeals
Those who appealed to the president were Clarence Stoecker, Richard Shaughnessy and Martin Goetz, presidents of locals 108, 101 and 107, respectively.

Meanwhile, the F. E. W. O. C. pressed demands for elimination of the piece work pay system, increased wage rates, and recognition in plants where it does not hold contracts.

The company has expressed willingness to negotiate for the Chicago tractor works and the Richmond, Ind., plant where the F. E. W. O. C. has won bargaining rights but has contended that the C. I. O. group must first win recognition at the other plants before the latter can be included in the negotiations. These plants are located in Chicago, Milwaukee, Rock Island, Rock Falls and East Moline, Ill.

E. MOLINE PLANT OPEN

East Moline, Ill., Jan. 17.—(AP)—E. W. Stahl, superintendent of the East Moline works of the International Harvester Company, where members of the independent union yesterday went on strike over a seniority classification dispute, said today that the plant was open for those who wished to work. Further than this, however, he declined to comment.

Picket lines were formed at the plant this morning by both members of the independent union and the CIO, and none of the workers were attempting to enter the plant.

A statement issued today by local 104 of the CIO, following a meeting last night termed the strike as a "lock-out."

The statement said: "1.—This is not a bona fide strike, but a lock-out caused by a majority in collusion with the company."

"2.—The CIO, in order to protect the jobs of the locked out workers, is forced to take the legal steps of declaring the plant on strike and CIO members will refrain from working and will establish picket lines at the plant."

"3.—The company union contract (the no-strike) clause, having been cancelled by the strike, the CIO will insist that the company enter

Driving Conditions in Illinois Still Unsafe

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Snow in the northwest area of the state and rain in the north-east section made driving conditions in Illinois hazardous for the fourth consecutive day today, the state highway division reported.

Temperatures at the freezing point turned snow into sleet in the Kewanee and Quincy area. It was predicted that the snow and rain would move farther south today.

Chief Highway Engineer Ernst Lieberman said the condition of roads was not serious as yet, but that in some portions the snow was packing.

The fog, which had been heavy as far south as Litchfield last night, was reported lifting considerably, he said.

British Plan War Control Base in West Hemisphere

London, Jan. 17.—(AP)—An authoritative source said today Britain was seeking the United States' views on the establishment of a British contraband control base in the western hemisphere, possibly the West Indies.

There is nothing to stop the British from establishing such a control base in the West Indies this source added, but he said that because of "close relations" between Britain and the United States the British were seeking Washington's views.

If a control station were set up there, the most likely port would be Trinidad, he said.

The base would be designed to halt trade between the Americas and Germany in goods the British class as contraband, it was said. There now is reported to be a leakage through the British blockade of cotton, grain and oil plant machinery which is shipped through the Panama canal to the Pacific, thence to the Russian port of Vladivostok and from there to Germany via the trans-Siberian railroad.

The British estimate the trans-Siberian can carry 500,000 tons of war goods a month for Germany.

BOMBER, WITH 7 ABOARD, OBJECT AIR CORPS HUNT

U. S. Army Ship Missing
On Training Flight
in the West

BULLETIN

Sacramento, Calif., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Search for a missing twin-motored army bomber with seven men aboard turned to the California-Oregon border area today on the strength of a report that a plane was seen flying low, in apparent trouble.

Constable Tillman King of Hornbrook, Calif., in Siskiyou county, reported seeing an army plane flying east over the Klamath river yesterday at only 500 feet.

McChord Field, Wash., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Army Air Corps western units mobilized today to search through a vast territory in four states for a twin-motored bomber, missing with seven men aboard.

The B-18A Douglas War Bird vanished yesterday on a training flight from its McChord Field base to the Muroc bombing range in southern California's Mojave desert. It did not carry bombs.

Today a logging company superintendent at Longview, about 80 miles south of here, reported a large plane with motors cut out was seen heading east in the Silver lake region at 11 a. m. yesterday. A party of men will start out over logging routes soon to search the area.

It left here under favorable visibility conditions at 12:29 p. m. (CST) yesterday under orders to stop at Sacramento, Calif., an estimated four hours later. No radio report was received from the ship after it left here.

A storm was reported in the northern California Siskiyou yesterday, but Commercial Air Lines flew through without difficulty.

One Ray of Hope

Col. Walter Peck, announcing plans for an air search today, said "we will probably start by covering the region as far east as Bend, Ore., and south as far as Mount Shasta in California."

Colonel Peck said the plane might have flown far enough to the southeast to get into Nevada.

One ray of hope at the air base came from the experience of a bomber crash in southwestern Washington last year, when eight men parachuted to safety before the big ship crashed.

Aboard the bomber which disappeared yesterday were:

First Lieut. R. M. Krummes, pilot; Second Lieut. J. F. Geis, navigator; First Lieut. L. E. Mackay; Technical Sergeant H. A.

Disclose Plans to Pay Illinois Reserve Militia

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Plans to pay officers of the newly-created Illinois reserve militia $250 a year, with $1 for each weekly drill for enlisted men, were disclosed today by Major General John V. Clinkin, commander of the home guard.

General Clinkin said that the $250 payment would be made regardless of officers' rank and would cover the cost of uniforms.

Enlisted men will also be paid $4 a day when called out on active duty. The reserve militia will replace the Illinois National Guard when Guardsmen are called into federal training. National Guard privates now receive $1 for each weekly drill.

LECTURER COLLAPSES

Detroit, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Oswald Garrison Villard, 68-year-old editor and writer, collapsed today in the midst of a lecture on the stage of a downtown theater.

Villard was treated backstage by a physician and taken to his hotel. He was talking on "Behind the Scenes in War" when he fainted. The curtain was lowered.

A physician who examined Villard said he believed there would be no serious consequences.

Willkie's Endorsement of Lend Bill Likened to "Speeches for Roosevelt"

Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Republican opponents of President Roosevelt's foreign policy contended today that Wendell L. Willkie's endorsement of the administration's lease-lend British aid bill had weakened his chance of picking the new chairman of the Republican national committee.

Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., house minority leader, plans to resign as party chairman late in March. It was reported today that Treasurer Charles B. Goodspeed also may resign because of ill health.

Willkie, Republican presidential nominee last year, has indicated to party leaders that he wishes the

Hard Explosions Heard on French Coast After RAF's Daylight 'Visit'

The War Today!

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Berlin and Washington yesterday produced striking authoritative statements which, while purely coincidental, would seem to be so closely associated in idea as to demand consideration in relation to each other.

One was contained in an article in Adolf Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter, and therefore stamped with official approval. The other developed in Secretary of War Stimson's testimony before the house foreign affairs committee.

First item: Hitler's paper said the fuhrer's statement that Germany has plenty of submarines will gain import during the next six months, because American aid for Britain ultimately will be a problem not only of production but of supply.

Second item: Secretary Stimson objected to writing into the lease-lend bill any prohibition against releasing American warships to Britain or any other nation.

"I can foresee conditions," he stated, "under which the navy could be transferred under conditions very advantageously."

Now Mr. Stimson didn't specify the conditions under which it might be desirable to make a transfer, and far be it from me to try to read his mind. However, it could be very easy to offer an interpretation which would make his statement a corollary to the claim by Hitler's paper.

The fuhrer's journal in effect threatens that the German submarine offensive will prevent the delivery of American supplies to Britain.

Whether Hitler has "plenty of U-boats" depends on what he means by "plenty." Be that as it may, observers generally agree that he has a good many—obviously enough to have created a very dangerous situation for British shipping.

The remark that American aid will be a problem not only of production but of supply is a long-headed observation. There is nothing more certain than that this is true, and it is a vital point which a lot of people have been overlooking.

Obviously it will avail little if the way of help for Britain if we produce mountains of supplies and they can't be delivered because of Hitler's counter-blockade.

Should the British be unable to cope with this menace, there inevitably must arrive a moment of grave crisis for the little island kingdom. This is so because she is largely dependent on sea-borne supplies both for subsistence and for the wherewithal to make war.

But that isn't the whole picture. Hitler is waging a dual offensive on this front in an effort to win the battle of the Atlantic and thus clinch the war. The submarine drive is one half of it. His terrific assault by air is the other.

And both of these lead toward the projected invasion of England, with troops, which he would calculate to be the knock-out blow.

Britain's problem is to counter these offensives in time. She is handicapped in meeting the submarine campaign by several circumstances, but one of the most important is the lack of sufficient destroyers and other light, fast warships to act as convoys and submarine hunters.

Should Hitler be able to unleash a further pack of U-boats, England's need of warships will increase. Certainly if the time arrives when Hitler can make his great gamble at invasion, men of war will be a crying need to blast the vast Nazi armada of transports out of the English channel.

I said in this column recently that if the British ever felt driven to call on us for more aid than we already have proffered, it likely would be a plea for warships. That thought grows stronger with each passing day.

That is why one wonders whether Secretary Stimson might have had something of the sort in mind.

WPA WORKER SUICIDES

Pineknobville, Ill., Jan. 17.—(AP)—A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of suicide in the fatal shooting of Gus Gossman, 48-year-old WPA worker, at midnight here last night. Gossman was found dead of a shotgun wound in the head at his home.

RAF Again Active

A Royal Air Force communiqué said "a very heavy raid was carried out by a very large force" of German Junkers dive-bombers and Italian fighting planes on Malta and that "civilian property suffered considerably."

The RAF also reported a repeat raid on the new German air base at Catania, Sicily, in which grounded German fighters were blown to bits and fires set, which were visible 50 miles away.

Far on the other side of the world, the undeclared war between French Indo-China and Thailand (Siam) flared to larger proportions.

The small French Asiatic fleet was reported to have sunk two Siamese warships and severely damaged a third in the Gulf of Siam. The size of the ships was not given.

Simultaneously the Bangkok (Siamese) radio reported large-scale offensives were being pushed by the Siamese army in five sectors, and the 1,000-mile frontier between the two countries.

Thrust Follows Nazi Night Assault on British Towns

(By The Associated Press)

British bombers roared across the channel to pay a daylight "visit" to Nazi bases along the French coast this afternoon, and heavy explosions were heard soon after they disappeared in the mist shrouding the Strait of Dover.

Greek dispatches from the Albanian front reported new gains in the Tepeleni mountain sector, while the Greek press declared one-third of Italy's forces have been knocked out of the 11-week-old conflict.

Italian losses were estimated at 70,000 killed, wounded, taken prisoner or sent back to Italy for frost-bite treatment.

In the RAF's daylight raid across the channel, explosions heard on the English coast indicated the bombs were falling on the Calais-Boulogne "invasion" sector.

100 Fires at Bristol

The thrust followed intensive overnight assaults, in which German "torch raiders" set 100 fires at Bristol, England—one of the main ports of entry for United States war supplies—while RAF squadrons again blasted the big German naval base at Wilhelmshaven in a "highly successful" attack.

It was the second smash at Wilhelmshaven, base of the German North Sea fleet, in 24 hours and the 41st since the war began.

Hitler's high command reported Nazi dive-bombers renewed their efforts to sink the British aircraft carrier Illustrious, already crippled in an attack off Sicily Jan. 10, striking at the 23,000-ton vessel as it awaited repairs at Valletta, Malta.

Informed German quarters declared the craft was now so badly damaged she would probably be knocked out of the war.

Claim Arsenal Hit

"Furthermore, numerous bombs struck the Malta arsenal," a Nazi communiqué said.

The British claimed 10 enemy planes were shot down at Valletta. During the night, distress signals crackled out of the North Atlantic from two large British ships—the 14,955-ton passenger liner Almeda Star and the 10,578-ton freighter Zealandic.

The "SSS" signal from both ships—meaning "attacked by submarine"—came from the same general zone northwest of London-derry, Ireland, prompting speculation that the Germans may have sent out a new series of U-boats big enough to stand the buffeting of winter storms at sea.

Later messages from the two ships reported that each had been torpedoed, but it was not immediately known whether they had sunk.

"Cat and Mouse" Saga

In South American waters, the "cat and mouse" saga of the French foodship Mendoza and a closely watching British cruiser moved toward a climax as the Frenchman crept northward safely inside Brazilian territorial waters—with the British cruiser Ericson just outside.

Three times in the past week, the Mendoza started to run the gauntlet without obtaining a British navicert for her cargo, and each time has turned back.

British authorities said "serious fires" were started by Nazi incendiary bombs in the raid on Bristol but a fire officer declared 60 of the 100 blazes were "put out in less than 10 minutes."

On Other Fronts

Cold weather reportedly limited fighting on the Albanian front to patrolling activity, while British forces encircled the Italian garrison at Tobruk, continued their preparations for an assault.

Japanese reaction to the United States attitude in the far east was reflected in violent anti-American comment in the press as high military and cabinet officials held a 45-minute conference with Premier Prince Fumimaro Kono.

The jittery Balkans were kept in anxiety by reports of clashes at the Soviet Russian-Rumanian frontier and reports from diplomatic quarters that Adolf Hitler intends to take over Rumania and make it a German protectorate.

Under the sponsorship of Freeport post, No. 139, the American Legion, the 129th Infantry band will play a concert in the Consistory Auditorium, Freeport, next Monday evening, January 20th. A very active advance ticket-selling campaign augurs well for a capacity attendance. Members of the ticket committee state that not in recent years has a coming event received so much favorable comment as the concert scheduled by the 129th Infantry band for next Monday evening.

Captain Bronson has recently enlisted several outstanding young artists in the regimental band which together with full rehearsal attendance, has brought the band up to a high standing of musical efficiency. Among recent additions to the band is Archie McAlister, gifted son of A. R. McAlister, conductor of the world famous Joliet Township high school band. Archie, Jr. is an artist on the flute and also is a nationally famous baton twirler. Mr. McAlister is assistant director of bands in Joliet high school system and also teaches baton twirling at Sterling.

Captain Bronson has arranged a program which is designed to offer something of interest to lovers of classical music as well as those who seek entertainment in stirring military marches and out-of-the-ordinary novelties.

The band's share of the proceeds of the concert will be used for the purchase of special items for the welfare and comfort of the bandmen after they have been inducted into federal service. The induction date has been announced as February 24th.

The Freeport concert has been made possible through the personal interest and efforts of William J. Trevillian, Freeport industrialist, who has on many occasions shown a friendly interest in the 129th band. Mr. Trevillian has purchased a block of one hundred tickets which he has presented to the nurses and other personnel of Deaconess hospital where he is recovering from injuries sustained in a recent auto accident.

Plans are being prepared for concerts by the 129th Infantry band in Rockford, Sycamore and Mount Morris, prior to departure for Camp Peay, Tennessee.

20th Birthday Party

Wednesday evening, Jan. 15th will be a long remembered occasion to members of the American Legion Auxiliary post No. 540, when the 20th anniversary of its origin was celebrated with a banquet in the gold room at Hotel Faber. Covers were laid for sixty-seven at 6:30. Mrs. Ila Cannon, chaplain, offered prayer. The pledge of allegiance was given in unison and one verse of America sung by those present.

One of Mendota's Gold Star mothers, Mrs. Bert Fields had the honor of cutting the beautiful birthday cake, gold roses and blue forget-me-nots, the auxiliary colors decorated the cake. Following the dinner Mrs. Henrietta Faber, program chairman introduced Russell Simmons who entertained with at all the services in this church. C. H. Hightower, pastor.

Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Hightower have received word that a baby girl was born to the Rev. and Mrs. Fred Ihlenfeld of Fargo, North Dakota. The young lady arrived at 6:30 on the morning of January 15. Mrs. Ihlenfeld is the former Bernice Hightower of the Mount Morris Lutheran parsonage. This is the second daughter in the Ihlenfeld home.

marimba numbers. He was accompanied on the piano by his sister, Mrs. Wesley Wright. The numbers played were "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 5 by Brahms," "Old Refrain" by Kreisler, "4 Slick Joe," "Mighty Like a Rose" and "Indian Love Call." Past officers who gave short talks reminiscent of "Way Back When" were Miss Myrtle Beltsch the first president who told how Dr. Edgar Cook called together sixteen people who were eligible to join the organization, and a temporary charter was filed. Miss Clara Schaller told about holding the charter open for one year and on August 1922 receiving a permanent charter with 106 members, thirty-one of the original members are still active members.

The organization has had eighteen presidents in 20 years. They are: Miss Myrtle Beltsch, Mrs. Margaret Potter, Mrs. Josephine Mueller, Mrs. Bert Fields, Mrs. George Kohl, Mrs. Olive Mortenson, Miss Catherine Coss, Mrs. C. E. Merritt, Mrs. Henrietta Faber, Mrs. Ruth Steele, Miss Clara Schaller, Mrs. Julia Saunders, Mrs. Helen Paige, Mrs. Josephine Coss, Mrs. Mabel Kohl, Mrs. Helen Elssner, Mrs. Ila Cannon, Mrs. Pearl Schaller.

A letter was read from Mrs. Margaret Potter of Wabasha, Minn. The past presidents parley was formed in 1934 with Mrs. Josephine Coss, president. Two past district directors were present. Mrs. C. E. Merritt of the 12th district and Mrs. Alexander Wyle who held office in Michigan. Mrs. Pearl Schaller, the present president, gave a very gracious talk not only of the past but of the future and the meaning of the pledge of allegiance, which means service to the American Legion Auxiliary.

The meeting was closed with all singing "Old Lang Syne", with Mrs. Ruth Steele at the piano. The evening's entertainment was in

Three Generations of Men Lose Arms As Results of Accidents

Mt. Vernon, Ill., Jan. 17.—(AP)—A unique "like father, like son" situation exists among members of the Bruce family of nearby Blufford.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bruce were notified this week that their son, Clayton, lost his left arm above the elbow after getting it caught in a corn shredder at Ringwood in McHenry county.

The victim's father and grandfather both have only one arm as the result of accidents.

Take Charge, Mister... and Let's Fireball!

THERE'S a new word spreading through the vocabularies of car owners who have made firsthand acquaintances with this sleek new 1941 Buick.

Reinforced by Compound Carburetion* this FIREBALL eight develops nearly 17% more horsepower on exactly the same fuel rationing.

With all that power on call, we can use a more economical gear ratio as our standard high gear—a ratio that ups miles per gallon by giving more revolutions of the wheels for every revolution of the engine.

Then, in addition, we have in Compound Carburetion a fuel supply system that adjusts itself according to the driving conditions you meet.

Thus your engine is always getting the utmost benefit out of the least amount of gasoline that will give the performance you want.

And that spells economy.

So much economy that a man who drives 15,000 miles a year gets as much as 2,000 miles' extra driving on the same amount of fuel.

And that, Buick buyers will tell you, is something very much worth looking into through a free demonstration such as any Buick dealer will gladly give.

BUICK PRICES BEGIN AT $935 for the Business Coupe delivered at Flint, Mich. State tax, optional equipment and accessories — extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other. Real patriotism who may resist the intrigues of the triflers who may resist the intrigues of the favorite are liable to become suspected and odious, while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people to surround their interests." From the Farewell Address.

What Kind of a World Do We Want?

Neither Germany nor Britain has stated with any directness its war aims—the kind of Europe and the kind of world they would like to see emerge from the war.

As long as both are locked in death grips, it isn't likely that either will. Once at war, the only object is to win. Remolding the world comes afterward.

There can be no harm, therefore, and perhaps some good, in speculation about these things in the United States.

We had a hand once in rearranging Europe.
It was a reluctant hand, as shown by the fact that the United States fought only as an "associated," never an "allied" power, and that it never did sign the Versailles Treaty, but made a separate peace with Germany later (Treaty of Berlin, 1921). Most of the suggestions we made in 1919 were rejected, and even those which were adopted did not work very well.

Yet when Senator Wheeler issued his recent prescription for Europe, his 1941 version of a Wilsonian Fourteen Points, what did he propose? Nothing better than another of those interminable reshufflings, re-carvings, of the European map.

It seems doubtful if anything like that will do this time. No matter who wins, the defeated people will remain a fact, and a stubborn fact. Germany was beaten, but they remain a fact, as Herr Hitler is already beginning to discover. Franco already knows that, despite the shootings and executions, that the large Republican element in his people remains a fact. And the Norwegian people are facts, and the Dutch, and the Belgian, and the Polish and Czech. Military victory does not eliminate peoples. They remain.

No possible rearrangement of Europe into another set of nationalistic closets, walled off from the rest by tariff barriers and artificial restrictions, can be much better than the one devised in 1919—a rearrangement, by the way, that embodied a considerable amount of scientific study, and was by no means entirely a victor's caprices.

Europe must federate or die. Not as the Caesars federated it, or as Napoleon tried to federate it, under a single master working the other peoples as slaves—such a federation leaves safe no country in the world.

Europe requires a continental economy, allowing national political and cultural institutions, yet allowing continental freedom of shipping and intercourse and trade in such a way that all can live.

The United States can certainly impose no such order in Europe, nor would it be so foolish as to try.
Yet Europe itself has produced almost no leadership with such a vision.

We can only hope that somewhere, in the trenches or bombshelters, it is being born.

Thin Ghost of an Eagle's Shadow

Europe never breaks with the past. Always the dead hand of the horrors and the glories of the past are on the continent's shoulder.

A healthy sense of the past is good, but there is something morbid in the news from Germany that the remains of the Duke of Reichstadt, Napoleon's pitiful little son, have been removed from the gloomy old Capuchin mausoleum in Vienna and reburied in Paris.

In Heaven's name, why this all-too-literal rustling of the dead bones of the past? What price has France paid that the dust of the bones of L'Aiglon, the eagle, should return to the Paris where he was born? Why should German authorities wish to encourage this symbol of French nationalism?
The more one thinks of it the madder it seems.

This little son of Napoleon and Marie-Louise of Austria had a strange, ill-starred, unreal life which, short as it was, became the stuff of drama. He was born in the Tuileries Palace in Paris in 1811, when his father was master of Europe and the most powerful man in the world.

He was a baby of two (though decked with the title, King of Rome) when his father's empire fell.
He was three during the Hundred Days, and was being reared as an Austrian princeling when his father died on lonely St. Helena.

His existence was used as a pawn in European politics for 15 years, but the frail Duke himself led the life of a lap-dog until he died at 21, probably the victim of pneumonia, though wild tales were not lacking that he had been poisoned.

There has always been a cult of Napoleon-worshippers in France. In fact, it has been said that the return of the body of Napoleon I to Paris provided the spiritual background for establishment of the brummagem empire of Napoleon III. Perhaps, the Republic having fallen, Napoleon-worship has resurrected itself in France; perhaps there are those who were willing to trade something to Hitler for this pitiful symbol.

Unhappy and restless in life, the little Duke could not be allowed to sleep in his Hapsburg cata-comb. A pawn while breath was in him, his very dust would seem now again to be used in some obscure move on the European checkerboard.

Could they not have let you rest, Eagle, who found no rest in life?

Why do you suppose that newspapermen and Red Cross workers are not allowed in Poland? Germany wants no one to see now what she has done.—
Dr. Abram L. Sachar, University of Illinois.

Nobody likes to be bothered—but it's nicer than being totally ignored.

Washington, Jan. 16 — There has never been as carefully planned a legislative movement as the one the administration organized behind the lend-lease bill for British aid.

So much fixing apparently was not needed, but not the slightest detailed opportunity to blanket the opposition was overlooked from the start. The congressional arranging was left mainly in the hands of oldtime congressional Democratic leaders and they had minute by minute cooperation of the White House and state department, who worked the outside, non-congressional sphere.

In not the least instance, State Secretary Hull, who is more of a hero to the southern Democrats than the New Dealers, was chosen to pitch the tone before the house committee. He hit high C by putting the proposition wholly on the plane of American defense.
With this tremolo he was able to explain everything, including implied violations of international law, the Hague treaty, the Panama conference agreement, and some other objections. No other administration officer could have made as good an impression on the house committee. The state secretary left his temper at home, was properly evasive, and always diplomatic—in all of which features he mildly surprised his old friends in congress.

Roosevelt's high note was no less deafening to the opposition.
He registered what has been described as livid rage when he called Senator Wheeler's accusation that the bill "would plow over every fourth American boy," as "the most untruthful, dastardly, unpatriotic thing that has ever been said." The rage may have been livid but it was not unprecedented. The president's manner of accusation as a volunteer answer to a question on another subject.

The most dangerous technical difficulty in pushing the measure through congress has been to surmount the accusation that it is a war declaration in its inevitable consequence. The opposition had the warlike words of Roosevelt himself in his message to congress which they intended to use embarrassingly. (Words he was then using only for the purpose of arousing the country to the necessities of defense).

To thwart this plan of attack,
all the administration leaders have been attempting to designate any opposition as "unpatriotic".

The big boost from Wendell Willkie was apparently the only unarranged break in aid of the administration cause. (Anyone who knows the extreme personal bitterness existing between Mr.
R. and W. W. could not believe different.) The anti-war committee of Verne Marshall was battered at the outset by the exposed of some vague connection with an international oil man who once dealt with the nazis. The America First Committee has never been able to become prominent.

With these alert and skillful tactics the opposition has been kept largely on the defensive (the favorite strategem of all New Deal campaigns). As a consequence the opposition fight so far has been even less powerful than had been expected. The already tip-heavy odds favoring fairly easy passage of a slightly amended form of the bill have gone higher.

The Maritime Commission suddenly decided the other day (without announcement) that no more ships could be chartered to the Russians. The decision was made just after Stalin renewed his trade agreement with the U. S.
There was no connection of course, you understand how those things are. The M. C. just happened to learn at that moment that the British need whatever ships we can spare from our own defense effort.

This is to be new settled policy, disrupting six months of shipping cooperation with the Reds. (A period in which Stalin exhibited less antagonism to Britain).

"Free Way of Life" is Doomed to Pass With British Loss; Willkie

New York, Jan. 17. (AP)— Wendell L. Willkie is convinced that if Great Britain collapses the "free way of life" will pass from America.

He urged all Americans to give President Roosevelt all the power he needs, "so that we can debate with him again in another free election," when called from the audience of "America's Town Meeting of the Air" to comment upon Socialist Leader Norman Thomas' opposition to the president's "lend-lease" proposal for aid to Britain.

"If I believed that Britain would collapse and America could survive economically," he said, "then I would not take a single risk in involving this country in any international entanglements."
"But if on the other hand I believed, as I do believe, that if Britain collapses within a few years the free way of life will pass from America, then even I who opposed the election of Franklin Roosevelt with all my being, would grant to him such extraordinary powers."

Mobile Kitchens, Urgent Need in War-Torn England

Bringing home to Chicagoans the slogan that "England's homeless cannot live on sympathy alone," the British War Relief society showed loop workers and shoppers earlier in the week what it is doing to bring material aid and comfort to Britain's bombed civilian population.

Following a route along Wacker drive, State street to Jackson boulevard, and then along La-Salle street, was a parade as colorful as it was brief and effective. Chief exhibit of the parade was one of the mobile kitchens that are playing such a large role in feeding Britons who have had their homes and offices tumbling around them.

The kitchen on parade was one of 245 which generous Americans have already purchased for daily 24-hour service in England. Each has a capacity for feeding 200 persons. It is a ton and a half truck containing an electric range and large vacuum caldrons for hot soup and coffee.

Following the parade at noon, the kitchen was to be driven directly to New Orleans for shipment to England. During the recent bombing of London, when firemen fought 48 hours to put out thousands of fires set by Nazi incendiary bombs, these American kitchens were the only source of food supply available to the fire fighters.

Profits from a concert to be presented Tuesday evening, Jan. 28, at the Loveland Community House by Mrs. Gladys Gilderoy Scott of Francis Shimer college will be used to purchase such necessities and comforts as the kitchens. Members of the Dixon Woman's club are sponsoring the concert.

Mrs. T. J. Miller, chairman of the Dixon British War Relief society's knitting committee, reports that ten sweaters have been knitted and sent to Chicago headquarters for shipment to England.

McMILLEN—WEAVER
Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Marie Weaver, second daughter of the Cleon Weavers of Malta, and Malcolm McMillen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl McMillen of Tennessee, Jan. 1, in Clinton, Iowa. The Rev. Paul Bergdorff officiated.

Miss Jessie Weaver was her sister's only attendant. Jack McMillen of Rochelle served as best man for his brother.

The bride wore black accessories with her soldier blue dress, and gardenias formed her corsage. Her attendant also wore blue, with a corsage of white carnations.

A wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents. After their return from a brief wedding trip, the couple will reside in DeKalb, where both are employed. The bride formerly attended the Nelson and Dixon schools, and was graduated from Malta Township high school with the class of 1940.

Interest Groups Are Organized for Girl Scouts

Four regular activities were scheduled when Senior Scouts from the four high school troops met at the Loveland Community House last evening to express a preference as to their favorite interest groups.

Mrs. H. Victor Luke is to direct a dramatics group at 7 p. m. every Tuesday. At the same hour, Mrs. E. R. Clark and Miss Betty Allen will be giving instruction in crafts. At 7 p. m. Wednesday, Mrs. E. M. Greene, Miss Dorothy Butts, and Miss Mary Louise Smith will discuss newspaper work, and Mrs. Lloyd Miller will meet with those interested in contract bridge.

On Saturday morning, a special sports group will meet with Miss Frances Longman, and any Senior Scout may attending. The activity available will be governed by the season, with bowling heading the list.

At 7 o'clock on Monday evenings, a service group—to which all senior Scouts, leaders, council and committee members are invited at their leisure—will meet to knit for the Red Cross and for Bundles for Britain, under the direction of Mrs. Theodore Miller, Mrs. James Cledon, and Mrs. Rowley. Sewing will also be done for these organizations, and clothing for local needs will be collected.

The newly-organized interest groups are to hold three weekly meetings, and during the second week in February, will give an account of their activities to their regular troops. Girls who failed to enroll last evening, are asked to report to the group of their choice next week.

All groups with the exception of sports, and perhaps bridge, will meet at the Community House.

SELF-IMPROVEMENT

Judge of this improvement, not by what thou speakest or writest, but by the firmness of thy mind, and the government of thy passions and affections.

—Fuller
Infinite toil would not enable you to sweep away a mist; but by ascending a little you may often look over it altogether. So it is with our moral improvement; we must ascend to a higher plane, and then we can see the things which would have no hold upon us if we ascended into a higher moral atmosphere.

—Sir Arthur Helps
To remove those objects of sense called sickness and disease, we must appeal to mind to improve its subjects and objects of thought, and give to the body those better delineations.

—Mary Baker Eddy
The mind unlearns with difficulty what has long been impressed on it.

—Seneca
Use your gifts faithfully, and they shall be enlarged; practice what you know and you shall attain to higher knowledge.

—Arnold
Finally, education alone can conduct us to that enjoyment which is at once, best in quality and infinite in quantity.

—Horace Mann

Wallace Submits His Last Report
Washington, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace, in his last report as Secretary of Agriculture, said today that the war's impact on American agriculture may require additional "large-scale" shifts in crop production and an overhauling of the New Deal farm programs.

With foreign markets impaired by economic nationalism, increased competition and finally the war, the Vice President-elect said farmers would have to think anew about making further reductions in acreages of cotton, wheat, tobacco and other products which formerly found outlets abroad.

"Growing unneeded crops is sheer waste of labor, of capital, and of soil, even if temporarily the products can go into shortage under government loans," Wallace's final annual report said.

Covering the 12 month period to Wallace's resignation in September as secretary of agriculture, the report said federal farm programs might have to "put more emphasis on shifting enterprises or systems of farming in certain areas or regions," and added:

"Collectively and individually farmers, with suitable federal aid, should do all they can to adjust their output to the actually available market."

"In the setting created by the war we may have to overhaul our 'farm-price-adjustment policy'."

Some Possibilities
Wallace said that future price policies might require differentials between export prices and domestic prices, and between the cost of farm commodities to the ordinary consumer and the cost to the person on relief.

The situation requires, he continued, separation of surplus production from the rest of the supply and disposal of the surplus in some special manner. He indicated that he continued to favor, for some products, a "certificate plan" of boosting grower income from that portion of crops consumed in this country while permitting prices to adjust themselves at levels which would permit the surplus to compete favorably in the world markets.

Wallace viewed the certificate method as readily adaptable to products which pass through centralized manufacturing or marketing processes, such as wheat, rice and tobacco. In the case of corn and other feed crops, only a small portion of which are processed, other methods would have to be used, he said, suggesting price supporting government loans and appropriations.

Looking beyond the war, the former secretary declared agriculture needed to be guarded against "having to be the main post-war shock absorber."

Agriculture, Wallace said, has "laid the basis in production planning which other branches of the national economy may have to copy."

TO OHIO BANQUET

Dr. David L. Murphy and Bert Cummings attended the booster club banquet in Ohio last night where Dr. Eddie Anderson, Iowa grid coach, was the principal speaker.

DEFENDING CHAMPIONS

Franklin Grove's cagers are the defending champions of the Route 72 conference tournament which opens next Thursday at Monroe Center. The Grovers meet the Leaf River team as their first and having defeated the Leafers, the Mitchellmen feel confident they can go to the finals. The results of the last two Franklin Grove games have not been so encouraging to the home staff, but the squad has lost several regulars due to mumps and a few others who have been fighting off the effects of the flu. By tournament time they are expected to be at full strength.

GAME IS POSTPONED

The Elgin State hospital cagers informed Tony Denihan, manager of the Dixon hospital team, that they would prefer to postpone their scheduled game here tonight due to the bad weather and dangerous driving conditions.

SUPPORT THE BENEFIT GAMES

Local cage fans will have a rare treat here next week end, and at the same time a chance to support the worthy fight against infantile paralysis. Two feature games are to be played at the high school gymnasium and it will be the Dixon Knacks' first home appearance this season as they battle the Oakley Merchants. In the other game of the twin bill the high-scoring State Hospital team matches strength with the Walz Lunch of Sterling. Grant Biddle has been named to head the ticket-selling committee and he will be assisted in the work by James Hanna, Edward Jones is chairman of the local committee planning celebration of the President's birthday and the fight of infantile paralysis. The Dixon Evening Telegraph sports department is sharing in the sponsorship of the benefit games here.

MORE GOLDEN GLOVES

A new list of entries for the Golden Gloves at Sterling has been received there and the additional leatherpushers include John Sears, 135; Walden Wagenknecht, 118 and Bill Canabhan, 160 all of the Oregon CCC camp and Kenneth McCracken, 158, and Dale Reynolds, 147, both of Amboy. The tournament begins at the Sterling coliseum next week on Wednesday night.

DEKALB MENTOR TO BE RELEASED

In spite of the fact that graduation riddled the football and basketball prospects for this season and that Coach Jim Trees of DeKalb was forced to develop green material, the board of education of that city has notified the Earle mentor that his contract would not be renewed at the close of the school year. A poor season in the two major sports has been given as the reason for the change in the coaching staff. Coach Trees went to DeKalb eleven years ago and during that time he turned out championship football teams in the North Central conference in 1930-1932-36-39 and championship lightweight teams in 1932-33-36. In his first year coaching basketball his cagers finished second in the conference and his track team was also second last year. Coach Trees has always been popular with this department and it is with regret that we see him go, particularly when it seems assured that DeKalb prospects for victorious teams seen bright for next season on the development he has made this season starting from scratch. He's had a big order at DeKalb with coaching of both light and heavyweight football and basketball teams.

HIGH KEGLERS

Eleven bowlers of the Major League which rolls tonight at the Dixon Recreation, have averages of 170 or better. They include: Wilbur 173; Van Doren 175; Daschbach 178; Senneff 170; Wolfe 178; Riddbauer 174; Worley 194; John 185; H. McCordle 171; Klein 175 and Becker 180.

Plum Hollow Wins Postponed Match to Tie for Lead

Plum Hollow's City League bowlers won two games from the Three Deuces in a postponed match at the Dixon Recreation alleys last night. The victory put the "golfers" in a tie for first place in the circuit with the Reynolds wire quintet and the Three Deuces are now tied for third with Myers Royal Blue.

Witzleb rolled 522 to lead the winners and Cy Winebrenner's 542 was tops for the losers. Witzleb's 193 in his second game was the highest of the match.

BILL TILDEN IS HURT IN CRASH NEAR COMPTON

"Big Bill" Tilden, veteran tennis star, escaped with minor injuries early yesterday afternoon when the car he was driving collided with that driven by Jörn R. Baudhuin of Rockford on route 51, two and a half miles southwest of Compton.
Tilden who had stopped at a Rockford hotel for breakfast was en route to St. Louis where he was scheduled to play in a professional exhibition tonight.
The net star suffered minor lacerations about the knees and bruises and was treated at the Harris hospital at Mendota. An unidentified friend with Tilden was unhurt. Baudhuin, also suffered only minor injuries although his car was practically demolished.

According to Baudhuin, the collision occurred when Tilden attempted to pass the car ahead of him. The highway follows an east and west route at the point of the crash and Tilden was driving west. Baudhuin said.
Mist and fog is blamed for the accident and believed to have obscured Tilden's vision and prevented him from seeing the Baudhuin car preceding that of Baudhuin. The driver of the car ahead of him, Phil Gaffney of Ottawa drove his car off the highway and into a ditch to avoid hitting Tilden's machine.

The tennis star was determined to fill the St. Louis engagement "if my knee holds up". The physician who treated him estimated that it was unlikely that Tilden could play for several days.

THURSDAY NIGHT KEGLERS' SCORES RECEIVE A JOLT

Commercial League Men Drop More Averages Than Ten Pins

"Aw, it's the new timber", became the alibi of the keglers in the Commercial league last night when they needed something for which to blame their low scores. Only two keglers of the 40 made scores over 500, and there were more averages that fell than pins. There wasn't a 200 game in the lot!

The Round-Up won two games from Cahill's to maintain the one-game lead of the circuit over Sparky's Fenders and everyone else fell right in line.

The Dixon Telegraph team made the news with a three-game victory over Reynolds wire but there was nothing sensational about the newbies' scores and they were helped along by a favorable handicapping. Shultz rolled 448 to lead the winners and George Bishop's curve ball counted 467 to lead the wire-men.

"High" Scores

In winning two games from Cahill's Electric, Brabazon paced the victorious Round-Up with 543, one of the evening's "high scores". Biggart's 436 was tops for the losers.

Coss Dairy won two games from the Candy Box with Bones Carlson rolling the other "high series" with a 514 to lead the dairymen. Bondi counted 462 to lead the sweets shop.

The second-place Sparky's team won two games from the National Tea in a close handicap match. Bubrick rolled 448 to lead the winners and Courtwright's 475 was tops for the National lads.

Raising Paralysis Funds

Intensive drives for funds to fight infantile paralysis, began on Monday when collection boxes were placed about town for contributions. School children have been making contributions there, an all-star Rochelle team will play a basketball game against the Dixon Knacks on Thursday, January 23, and the President's ball will be held in the Bain ballroom on January 30. Private enterprises are encouraged also; such as house parties, theater benefits and sports benefits.

Local basketball fans are selecting the Rochelle all-star team for the benefit game. Ballots may be obtained at the various stores in town. The ten players receiving the greatest number of votes will represent Rochelle against the Dixon Knacks.

The president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Basil O'Connor, reports that during the past three years, but 5.61 percent of the total receipts have gone toward the cost of administration as the work is done largely by voluntary workers. Fifty percent of all money raised will remain in the treasury of the local county organization, and the remainder goes to the National Foundation which makes grants and appropriations for work in the fields of virus, nutrition, after-effects research, epidemics, and education.

It will be recalled that the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thorpe is a nurse in the Warm Springs, Georgia, Foundation. Mr. and Mrs. Thorpe are spending the winter in Warm Springs.

Formation of the state units is being encouraged to take the place of National Guard units mobilized into federal service.
